Rights-Of-Entry Provided For State To Begin Test Borings

STROUDSBURG Chief Burgess Hal H. Harris yesterday presented the Department of Forests and Waters with rights-of-entry needed before test borings can be made for the first phase of permanent flood control works along Brodheads and McMichaels creeks.

Burgess Harris disclosed that engineers estimated it will cost some $1,780,000 for flood control works on Brodheads Creek from the Stroudsburg borough limits to below the McMichaels Creek entrance, and along the McMichaels from the Brodheads to the Fifth St. bridge.

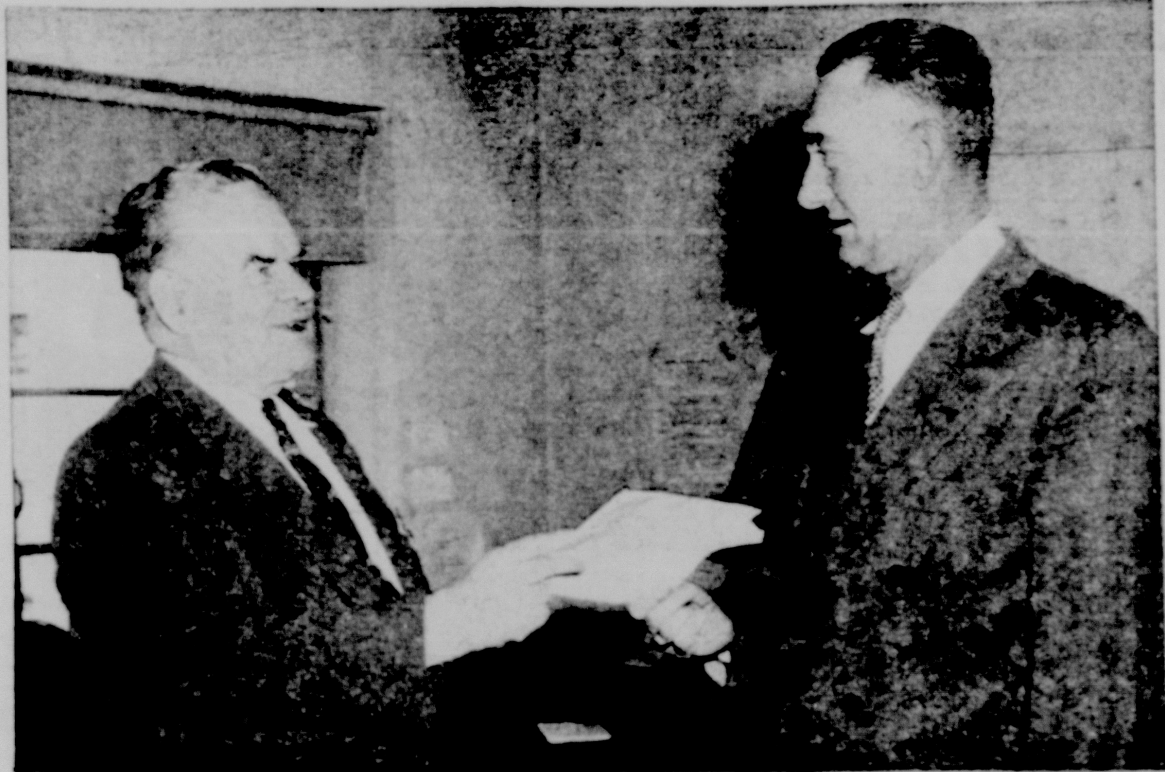

The mayor turned over rights-of-entry from the Pennsylvania Power and Light Co., Metropolitan Edison Co., Worthington Mower, Star Ribbon Corp., Pennsylvania Independent Oil Co., and Lester Abelloff.

Meanwhile, Acting District Engineer Leonard F. Razny, Sr., of the Stroudsburg flood control office said he expects all necessary rights-of-entry in shortly from the two boroughs and Stroud Township.

Work will not begin on the test borings until the rights-of-entry have been obtained, he said.

Razny said the present phase will involve test borings and surface and sub-surface soil explorations.

and Waters Maurice K. Goddard approved award of the contract for the tests to Sprague & Henwood, Inc., Scranton, which submitted a low bid of $13,844.

The project includes 1,850 vertical feet of drive sample boring and sampling and 620 vertical feet of core drilling in rock one and five-eighths inches core.

Razny indicated that the permanent flood protection possibly involves channel widening and construction of dikes. However, he emphasized that the design of the project depends upon the results of the test borings.

Peace Move Begins Between Army, Guard

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21 (AP)—A proposal to end the Army-National Guard row over active duty, giving the guard what it wants most for the present, was launched from Capitol Hill today.

The proposal was complicated and so was its sponsorship, but one thing stood out:

If it is adopted the guard will not have to begin April 1 telling youths 17 to 18½ who enlist that they must go on active duty for six months.

Maj. Gen. Ellard A. Walsh, president of the politically potent National Guard Assn. and chief spokesman for the guard in its legislative campaigns, promptly said practically all points in the proposal were acceptable.

The Army, however, said the proposed compromise plan would "defer the necessary training so far in the future that it would not correct the training need that now faces the National Guard and the Army."

Statement

The Army said its statement was based on "a very quick analysis" of news reports of the plan.

The proposal was made public after a closed and apparently stormy meeting of a House Armed Services subcommittee. It did not have the official approval of the subcommittee but it did have the emphatic blessing of Rep. Vinson (D-Ga.), chairman of the full committee, whose opinions are generally received with respect at the Pentagon.

"Yes, sirree, I'm for it," Vinson told a reporter. "And I have great hopes that something along those lines will be worked out."

The subcommittee took a vote, rescinded it, and finally authorized a statement that its "sense" was that Chairman Overton Brooks (D-La.) should try to work out a compromise. Brooks then told newsmen what he planned to do immediately before the Army and National Guard. But some subcommittee members disassociated themselves from the proposal.

As outlined by Brooks, the settlement plan would greatly amend an Army order requiring men who enlist in the National Guard April 1 and thereafter, if they have no previous military experience, to take six months active training duty. The guard, which now requires no active duty, said this requirement would wreck its recruiting.

Offer

The guard offered to require 11 weeks active duty of youths under 18½ and let the six months rule, which matches minimum requirements in other reserve programs, apply to older recruits.

If Brooks' proposals are accepted, the guard would be allowed to go ahead on this basis, but the six months requirement for all would go into effect June 30, 1958, barring further developments.

Answer

Answering another question of critics he said that the qualifying examinations will be given to anyone who wants to take them—not just the present job holders.

Leader emphasized that all persons holding jobs recently covered by civil service will be required to take qualifying examinations administered by the commission.

Other news conference developments:

Gasoline Taxes—The governor said he would "rather document my case fully" before coming out flatly for continuing the gasoline tax at six cents a gallon.

Leader was reported ready to back such a move on the basis the money is needed as the state's share to qualify for federal highway aid.

The GOP—controlled House scheduled a vote next Tuesday on a plan to cut back the tax to five cents on June 1.

We hope to be in there with the highway budget on March 4 or 5," he said.

Education Consultants—Leader described as "ridiculous" the publication of lists of special education and welfare consultants "as some sort of expose."

Consultants received from $30 to $100 a day for part-time work with the state.

"We regard it as our good fortune to be able to consult with them," the governor said in describing them as some of the "best brains" in the state and nation.

Foundation Calls For Campaign

NEW YORK, Feb. 21 (AP)—The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis called today for an all-out winter and spring campaign to wipe out epidemic polio this year.

It asked for help from "various community and public resources" in doing the job through widespread setting up of clinics.

Israel Refuses Appeal By Ike

JERUSALEM, Israeli Sector, Feb. 21 (AP)—Israel refused tonight to bow to President Eisenhower's appeal to withdraw immediately behind the armistice lines. But Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion insisted the door is still open for negotiations.

Addressing Parliament after a critical Cabinet meeting, Ben-Gurion declared anew that Israel must have guarantees of freedom of navigation in the Gulf of Aqaba plus security against raids from the Gaza Strip.

"No matter what may happen, Israel will not submit to restoration of the status quo in the strip," he said. Before last October's invasion Egypt controlled the strip, formerly a part of Palestine, under the 1949 armistice terms.

Negotiations

Ben-Gurion said Israel is seeking further negotiations to reach an understanding with the United Nations and with the United States.

Ambassador Abba Eban, returning tomorrow to Washington, will convey the Israeli government's position. He had been summoned some to give a first-hand report to Ben-Gurion and the Cabinet, which met again tonight after the prime minister addressed Parliament.

President Ezer Weizman, army chief Maj. Gen. Moshe Dayan and Eban also attended the night Cabinet session called to spell out Eban's instructions. Parliament will debate Ben-Gurion's statement tomorrow.

President Eisenhower last night called on Israel to meet U.N. demands that Israel withdraw from Gaza and from the Sharm el Sheikh area overlooking the mouth of the Gulf of Aqaba. He in effect held over Israel the threat of U.S. backing for punitive sanctions by the United Nations.

Today in Washington, Eisenhower er appealed to American Jewish leaders to use their influence with the Israeli government. In London, meantime, the President's statement came under fire from Laborite members of the House of Commons. The British Foreign Office said Britain feels Israeli withdrawal should be combined with a U.N. guarantee of free passage in the Gulf of Aqaba.

The 70-year-old Israeli Prime Minister told Parliament:

View

"We hope the door is not closed to further discussion. The government has decided to make a further effort to reach an understanding with the United States."

He said of the Aqaba Gulf coast:

"Israel has no need and no desire to occupy the desolate coastal strip of the Suez-Tiran straits. But the cannot withdraw from the area without effective security guarantees that the Egyptian dictator's acts of violence against her shipping—which the United Nations has tolerated for years, will not be repeated."

"Israel dare not unconditionally abandon the defense of her rights and her security in the straits."

Banker Claims 'No Crisis' In Construction Of Schools

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21 (AP)—An investment banker told the House education subcommittee today there was "no crisis" in school construction.

William M. Adams, Detroit, Mich., chairman of the municipal securities committee of the Investment Bankers Assn. of America, testified:

"The school financing for the past four months projected for a full year would mean an expenditure for school construction of approximately $2,900,000,000 to provide about 96,600 classrooms in addition to the 69,200 scheduled for completion as of Oct. 1, 1956."

Adams noted that statistics compiled by the Education Department showed 80,000 classrooms were needed as of the fall of 1956 to accommodate excess enrollment and 79,000 more to replace unsatisfactory facilities. Adams suggested these figures might be a bit high.

Four Months

Adams said school bond sales during the last four months should provide about 32,600 additional classrooms.

He said the figures "show that there is no crisis in classroom construction and that state and local agencies are rapidly providing the needed classrooms."

Another witness, Rep. Schriver (R-Kan.), testified for his proposal to return one per cent of the federal personal and corporate income taxes to each state "for educational purposes only."

Schriver estimated the outlay of federal money would be about 600 million dollars a year, the same as provided in a bill by Rep. Kelley (D-Pa.). The administration has proposed grants of $25 million dollars a year to the states for four years for school construction.

Parmer L. Ewing, superintendent of schools at Buffalo, N.Y., said he came as an individual to present the viewpoint of "somebody on the firing line."

Ewing said Buffalo had a "very serious problem" in school financing and "this structure of government is such that you need to pool resources."

Ewing said Buffalo's school problems came mainly from a shift in population and the rehabilitation of old buildings.

Chestnuthill Parent-Teachers Association Forwards Letter To County Commissioners

BRODHEADSVILLE—Chestnuthill Consolidated School Parent-Teachers Assn. last night voted unanimously to forward a letter of complaint to the Monroe County Commissioners dealing with tax assessments in Monroe County.

The letter, signed by more than 50 people present at last night's PTA meeting in the school, demands that the commissioners take immediate action to bring the assessed evaluation of Monroe County up to at least 33 and one-third percent of market value.

The measure, placed as a motion by Henry K. Troeller, Effort, was approved by a unanimous vote of those present.

It was also decided at the meeting to advise all other PTA units in Monroe County of the action taken last night and to advise these organizations to take similar action.

The absence of "tax equalization" in Monroe County is making school construction and expansion virtually impossible, school authorities have revealed during recent meetings.

Work Slated To Resume Tomorrow

BALTIMORE, Feb. 21 (AP)—Baltimore shippers and longshoremen announced agreement tonight on a new contract which could pave the way for a general return to work at piers along the Atlantic Coast.

The agreement was reached after an all-day session between the Baltimore International Longshoremen's Assn. and the Steamship Trade Assn.

Details were not immediately available.

A union spokesman said Baltimore's 7,400 ILA members "will return to work at 8 a.m. (EST) Saturday if the other ports do too." He said the Baltimore dockers would not return until a settlement is reached at Norfolk, Va.

Subject

August Isid, head of the Baltimore ILA said the agreement is "subject to the ratification of the membership."

Baltimore shippers and dockers earlier today had agreed on terms of a master coastwide contract but local issues still were to be ironed out.

This was done in sessions tonight.

East Coast longshoremen defied their union leaders earlier today in a one-for-all, all-for-one continuation of a Maine-to-Virginia waterfront strike.

New York dockers voted during the day on a master contract negotiated with shippers here in the nine-day strike. A hard core of Manhattan dockers is opposed to its terms and would be delighted to see the rank-and-file scuttle the whole agreement.

Basics

William V. Bradley, president of the International Longshoremen's Assn. (Ind.), had ordered his 45,000 striking dockers back to the piers at 8 a.m. today on the basis of the tentative contract agreement.

In New York, Philadelphia and Boston, tens of thousands of longshoremen sided with Baltimore and Norfolk in open defiance of Bradley's return-to-work mandate.

It was the most serious defiance of Bradley's authority since a 1954 wildcat dock strike was pulled against his opposition.

"We won't doublecross anyone," said Harold Bowers, boss of Manhattan's West Side "Pistol" Local 824. The local, which gets its name from its past history of violence, has been a spearhead in the current ILA revolt.

Fred Field, secretary-treasurer of Manhattan Local 856 declared of the impasse in Baltimore:

"They went out for us and we will stay out for them."

While the longshoremen's strike kept the vast New York harbor in a turmoil, a 21-day-old strike of 4,000 tugboat operators neared an end. If a tentative agreement reached early today is approved in a vote tomorrow by Local 333, National Maritime Union, some 400 tugs will go back into operation.

Kinkaid Quits
Position With Commission

MORRISVILLE, Pa., Feb. 21 (AP)—The Delaware River Joint Toll Bridge Commission today accepted the resignation of William Kinkaid of Philadelphia as superintendent of operations and maintenance.

The bi-state agency, at its regular monthly meeting, did not name a successor to the $12,000-a-year post.

No reason for Kinkaid's resignation was given.

The commission made these other decisions:

1. It will hold a public auction in the near future to dispose of unnecessary items on hand and objects given to toll collectors as security by persons without funds.

First Group

The first group includes items such as a motion picture projector and kitchen utensils purchased by the commission before its reorganization following charges of lavish spending. The second category covers a multitude of small items left at toll bridges and unclaimed.

2. It will file suit in New Jersey Superior Court next month seeking to recover alleged illegal salaries paid to former New Jersey members of the commission. Several past efforts to recover the salaries through the courts have failed.

3. It will hold a public meeting March 6 to discuss location of a proposed new bridge between Yardley, Pa., and West Trenton, N. J.

Witnesses Divide Blame For Crash

BUFFALO, N. Y., Feb. 21 (AP)—Witnesses today cited mechanical failure and human error as possible contributing factors in the collision of a freight and a passenger train on the New York Central's main line at Ripley.

Centralized Traffic Control (CTC), such as was in effect at the point of the wreck, was described by a witness as "simply a communications system" with no direct effect on railroad safety.

The testimony featured the second and last day of the ICC hearing, called to determine the cause of the wreck that took the life of the passenger train engineer, John V. Miller, 65, of Cleveland.

Freight

Miller's eastbound train slammed into the side of the westbound freight at a cross-over Feb. 8.

The description of CTC as only a communication system was offered by Harry J. Scott of Cleveland, the Central's chief signal officer.

It was in contrast to a railroad statement last month terming the Buffalo-Cleveland section of the mainline, newly equipped with CTC, the "world's safest" stretch of track.

Other witnesses said a wayside inductor along the track had been found faulty.

Much of the day's testimony concerned the functions of this device, and others, and the inspection of them after the wreck.

A wayside inductor is a device fastened to the track near a signal. When a train passes a yellow signal, the circuit blows a warning whistle in the cab. Unless the engineer operates a forestalling device in the cab, the circuit also applies the brakes and stops the train.

The firemen on Miller's train testified previously the warning whistle did not sound as the train passed an approach signal 8,500 feet from the Ripley cross-over. But he also said the signal changed from yellow to green as the locomotive passed it.

Wilson Warns
Against Alarm

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21 (AP)—Secretary of Defense Wilson testified today that the United States must maintain "great military strength" but should not increase it to the point of causing world alarm.

Wilson said the United States should keep 2,800,000 men in uniform during the next three years, and would have to spend $3 to 40 billion dollars or more each year for defense.

Mansfield Takes Issue With Basis Of Eisenhower Doctrine

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21 (AP)—Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont.) told the Senate today President Eisenhower's Middle East resolution only creates "an illusion" of a policy for the area.

He said Congress has been asked to ratify something that "doesn't even provide a basis" for a policy.

It is wrong to call it an "Eisenhower Doctrine," the senator asserted.

He also chided the administration for what he described as an attempt to inject a "sense of urgency and crisis" into congressional consideration of the resolution by implying it covered "a course of action."

Revised

As revised by the Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services committees, the measure declares the readiness of the U. S. government to use its armed forces against any Communist aggression in the Middle East, provided the President deems it necessary and the country under attack asks for help.

The resolution appears to have wide support in the Senate, and both the Democratic and Republican leadership there have predicted its passage by a substantial majority. The House approved a different version of the resolution last month.

Mansfield complained the resolution ignores the Arab-Israeli problem and Soviet arms shipments into the Middle East, both of which he said have increased the Mideast tension.

He proposed two amendments, one calling for international control of arms shipments to the Arab states and Israel, the other reaffirming American "moral and material" support of the United Nations Emergency Force now in the Suez Canal area.

Pay Raises

General Motors Corp. announced its 402,000 factory workers will get the pay raise after March 1, with 109,000 G.M. salaried workers receiving an equivalent $5 quarterly pay raise. Some 120,000 Westinghouse Electric Co. employees also get the penny raise.

The pay boosts add $560,000 weekly to payroll costs, or nearly 30 million dollars a year.

The January living cost level is 3.1 per cent higher than a year earlier. Food alone is 3.3 per cent higher than in January 1956.

Slight January declines in overall food and clothing costs were more than offset by higher costs for housing, transportation, medical care and various goods and services, including fuel oil and other home heating fuels.

The Labor Department also reported that factory workers' spendable earnings—total pay less tax deductions—reached a January record. Average weekly earnings were $74.99 for the worker with three dependents, $67.98 for the single worker. Both figures were down about $1.50 below December levels because of somewhat shorter working hours and a boost in Social Security taxes.

Three Hungarians
Receive Terms

BUDAPEST, Feb. 21 (AP)—The Hungarian news agency MTI said today stiff prison terms were imposed on three Hungarians, including a woman, who carried out a bare-handed attack on a Russian tank in Miskolc last Dec. 10.

The agency said Bela Berta, 30, Margit Kocs and Janos Tamas received terms ranging from 3 to 14 years. The woman received the lightest sentence.

Leader Claims 'Nonpartisan' Interests

HARRISBURG, Feb. 21 (AP)—Gov. Leader said today that his executive action to broaden civil service coverage for state workers has been "completely nonpartisan" in the interest of good government.

He reported that a special survey shows 51 per cent of the state workers given merit system security by executive board action in recent weeks "were appointed by governors prior to this administration."

Leader told his weekly news conference that Republican assertions the civil service extension was designed to freeze Democratic appointees was false.

"None of these assertions or fears is well founded," he declared.

"There have not been any wholesale dismissals in technical positions. . . The Civil Service Commission is a bipartisan board under good leadership and we believe it is doing a good job and will continue to do a good job."

Answer

Answering another question of critics he said that the qualifying examinations will be given to anyone who wants to take them—not just the present job holders.

David Dentith

Elks To Honor Former Club Steward

BANGOR—Elks from lodges in Northeast Pennsylvania will assemble at the Bangor Elks Home tomorrow night to honor David "Davy" Dentith who retired recently after serving as steward at the local club for 41 years.

A testimonial dinner in the Elks auditorium will fetter the popular steward. The auspicious occasion comes when the lodge is on the eve of marking its golden jubilee, beginning in April.

An estimated 125 Elks will take part in the tribute. John L. Williams, past exalted ruler and current secretary of the local lodge, will serve as toastmaster. Thomas Jones, a PER and present chaplain, will offer invocation.

J. Lawrence Davis, PER, a local attorney, will speak on Dentith's contributions to the Elks lodge and its activities; Arthur Albert, PER, will reminisce on "Davy's" experiences and L. J. Brusch, PER, will relate Dentith's avid interest in sports.

Services

Dentith began his services with the Elks in 1916 as assistant to Dick Dawe, then the steward. Four years later he took over as head steward during the tenure of Thomas Kichline, exalted ruler. Since then his presence in the Elks Home daily was synonymous with the proverbial "fixures."

Except for duty with the Army in 1918, he never left home, to him—the Bangor Elks.

He helped organize the Emlyn H. Evans Post, American Legion, serving on the first home association board; was active as a football official in days gone-by, and has been a devout family man.

Now in retirement, he spends his days at his home, 607 Pennsylvania Ave., with his wife, and looks forward to visits from his three daughters, Marial, wife of Grover Fehr, Nazareth; Betty, wife of Thomas Mehan, Herkimer, N. Y.; and Irma, wife of Kermit Ackerman, Middletown.

Demand For Coal May Increase

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21 (P)—Secretary of the Interior Seaton today made public a report forecasting that European demand for U.S. coal will rise this year and is likely to increase during the next 20 years.

The report said European coal production, except in the Saar, has failed to keep pace with rising demand, especially for coking coal, and is expected to fall further behind demand.

Firemen's Benefit Dance Should Have Support Of All Citizens, Property Owners In Stroudsburg

Once each year the Stroudsburg Fire Department makes an appeal for funds to help it carry on activities for which no money is made available from any other source.

Rather than conduct a house-to-house canvass for outright donations as is done in many other communities, the firemen present their appeal in the form of a benefit dance.

This year's dance will be held tonight at the Penn Stroud Hotel. All the proceeds will be turned over to the firemen's fund.

Many persons look forward to the dance as a highlight of the Winter social calendar. It gives them their money's worth, thus easing the "touch" of the donation, while providing an evening of social enjoyment and entertainment for all who attend.

Be that as it may, the raising of funds remains the main objective of the dance and this reason alone should be all that is necessary to arouse all-out support of the affair among townspeople and property owners.

Stroudsburg Fire Department, like others in the county, is a volunteer outfit made up of men who give freely and willingly of their time to protect our lives and our properties. These non-paid firemen do so at the risk of their own lives and sometimes at a financial loss to themselves.

The least all of us can do is to offer our support in the shape of our dollars to make the dance a rousing success. Even if we are unable to attend the dance, we can buy one or more tickets to show the firemen we appreciate all they are doing in our behalf. They'll never know unless we demonstrate our support in the way that really counts.

First Appropriation Measure Clears House With Only Minor Cut; 12 Bills Still Remain

Chairman Clarence Cannon of the House Appropriations Committee has assailed the Eisenhower budget. The committee, however, voted a cut of only two per cent in the first regular appropriation bill it considered.

The bill for the Treasury and Postoffice Departments carries a total of $3,884,927,000 to run the department for the fiscal year beginning July. The committee cut $80,364,000 from the budget recommendation.

On Wednesday, the House approved the committee report and sent the measure on to the Senate, where the cut probably will be restored.

Twelve other major appropriations bills still remain to come before the committee under President Eisenhower's $71,800,000,000 budget for fiscal 1958.

Economy-minded congressmen are demanding reductions in the budget and are calling upon the taxpayers to maintain their pressure on the House and Senate for tax relief, for reduction of the national debt, for cutting the budget and for lowering of taxes.

Concrete plans for cutting the 71.8 billion dollar budget proposal range from two billion to more than eight billion. A simple way, some economy advocates say, is for Congress to resolve to hold appropriations to last year's level, which was 2.9 billion dollars under the proposed budget.

Some of the suggestions put forth include: reduce foreign aid spending, increase efficiency of government, eliminate unnecessary functions, cut number of government employees, avoid federal activities such as aid to education, slash defense spending, limit public works expenditures and reduce farm price supports.

Many of these items come under the heading of pork-barrel appropriations and are unlikely to feel the economy axe too severely. With public opinion definitely opposed to unrestricted government spending, however, we can hope that the lawmakers in Washington will see the light and act with a firm and fearless hand in slashing the fat out of appropriation bills.

George Sokolsky Says...

Washington's Address Outlining Doctrine Of Non-Entanglement Should Be Re-Read

In our prolonged history as a nation, now 169 years since the adoption of the Constitution, we have not been blessed by an extraordinarily large number of statesmen or political philosophers. It is astonishing, however, to note how many really great minds were active in preparing the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution and in charting the new government through the earliest years of its history.

All these men, of whatever philosophy, Thomas Jefferson as well as Alexander Hamilton, Sam Adams as well as John Adams, Thomas Paine as well as John Marshall recognized the genius, the competence, the wisdom of George Washington. The fact that George Washington pronounced a doctrine does not give it validity for all time, but it is to be noted that few statements of national purpose have had a more profound effect upon our historic policy than those enunciated in Washington's Farewell Address.

It must be conceded that the doctrine of nonentanglement grew increasingly unpopular after Roosevelt's Quarantine Speech in 1937 and the word, isolationist, became a term of opprobrium and even shame during World War II.

But the failure of American foreign policy to achieve not only its goals but any goals, the reckless outpouring of wealth of the people into bottomless coffers in many distant countries, the flirtations of the present Administration with Communists, dictators and slave-masters, does cause some wonderment.

The point is whether George Washington did not exhibit greater prescience than those who today can find it more moral to apply sanctions against Israel for invading Gaza than against Nehru for invading Kashmir.

The oft-repeated references to George Washington's Farewell Address rarely remind the reader that this was a renunciation of a third term in the office of the Presidency. He could not be dissuaded from his decision not to run again. He was assisted in the formulation of this document by Madison, Jay and Hamilton but the original is in his handwriting.

There was, of course, no Twenty-Second Amendment, limiting the Presidency to two terms then, but Washington did not regard himself as irreplaceable. In the rather rounded language of the period, he said:

"I rejoice, that the state of your concerns, external as well as internal, no longer renders the pursuit of inclination incompatible with the sentiment of duty, or propriety; and am persuaded whatever partiality may be retained for my services, that in the present circumstances of our country, you will not disapprove my determination to retire."

It is in this Farewell Address, in which Washington rejected a third term, that he laid down a foreign policy for this country, one that to a greater or lesser degree was followed closely by most of his successors.

The Nation, which indulges towards another an habitual hatred, or an habitual fondness, is in some degree a slave.

It is a slave to its animosity or to its affection, either of which is sufficient to lead it astray from its duty and its interest.

It would seem as though President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge might have read that sentence and the several paragraphs of warning that follow it when they flew down to Georgia to discuss the Suez-Gaza situation in the peaceful atmosphere of George Humphrey's shooting lodge. This sentence might have helped them too.

Sympathy for the favorite nation, facilitating the illusion of an imaginary common interest, in cases where no real common interest exists, and infusing into one of the enemies of the other, betrays the former into a participation in the quarrels and Wars of the latter, without adequate inducement or justification. It leads also to concessions to the favorite Nation of privileges denied to others, which is apt doubly to injure the Nation making the concessions.

Surely excessive partiality for Nehru's India, Tito's Yugoslavia and Nasser's Egypt would have appeared to George Washington as unseemly, for of such partiality he said:

Real Patriots who may resist the intrigues of the favorite, are liable to become suspected and odious; while its tools and dupes usurp the applause and confidence of the people, to surrender their interests.

I can quote no more for want of room, but in this year of faithful errors, it would be sound for citizens to read George Washington's Farewell Address — a legacy to his people.

The Once Over

Tennyson Revisited — Many rural communities are up in arms over being torn apart for new super-highways, vast shopping centers, new housing projects and general urbanization. Never have rippling brooks, leafy valleys and flowered hills taken the beating they are getting today. It is the bulldozer versus the Green Pastures, the Cement Mixer versus the Lolling Herd and the Dirt Truck versus the Barefoot Boy With Cheek of Tan, all over upland and lowland.

The foaming waterfall of today is the toll station of tomorrow. A rustic spot because today

The old cowbarn can get scooped up in a steam shovel any minute. Tennyson's famous verse about the brook must be rewritten:

I come from haunts of cool and fern,
I make a sudden sally
To dodge the engineers who burn
To desecrate a valley.

I steal by lawns and grassy plots,
I slide by hazel covers;
I soothe the sweet forget-me-nots
Where some steam shovel hovers.

By thirty hills my current swings,
My song is "Now or never!"
For babbling brooks are transient things —
Thruways go on forever!

I chatter over stony ways,
But find it hard to enter
A rustic spot because today

It is a shopping center

I wind about great rocks and trees
But now it's much like slumming
For just ahead are factories —
With supermarkets coming!

I skip, I slide, I glare, I spread
(It's well I am quite agile!)
Cement machines lie just ahead
And they are not too fragile.

I murmur under moon and stars,
In brambly wildernesses,
Pursued by tractors and dump cars
As some new project presses.

Contrive I must to curve and flow;
A brook must be most clever;
Tomorrow I may have to "blow"
But man goes on forever!

Try Running Any Office Without A Good Secretary

"A good secretary," recently spake a California husband, "is more important than a wife."

And during the divorce proceedings, he added, "You can replace a wife anytime, but not a secretary."

The plaintiff, poor woman, must have been out of touch with the business world for a long time. What wife doesn't know that?

That bosses are only as valuable to a company as their secretaries are efficient is a fact known to G.I. Fridays ever since they quit working Saturdays. Only recently, however, has this fearsome truth been winged from the high brass. "Where'd I be without Miss Blodgett?" is what causes executive ulcers, nine times out of 10. And so bad is the secretarial shortage that bosses try to keep customers from meeting their secretaries nowadays, rather than vice versa.

Why do you suppose Harvard is the popular scene of refresher courses for potential vice presidents? "Executive training" is only the pretext by which young chaps are winnowed from the hopefuls in a company, and sent off to pal around with kindred chaps for an eight week brush-up. Already bright as it is, there is little by way of "conditions, markets, personnel and production" they don't know.

The real point in post-graduate work is smartening up the lads on the art of acquiring and staying worthy of a good secretary, who, after all, keeps private enterprise in good shape.

Executive abilities, 'tis said, lie in three areas—technical skills, knowing enough about anything to be hired in the first place; human skills (knowing whom to pat on the back and when); and conceptual skills (knowing that if the company made money this year, can the tax effects be far behind?). Bosses aren't expected to be tip-toed in all three areas, whereas a first-rate secretary is. By noon of the first day she begins a job, she has picked up all this intellectual nonsense and is ready for the real work at which her boss is helpless.

Take typing. Can he boss tell a typewriter from a water cooler? Take phone calls. Can he dial a number without reaching (unadvertently) the overseas operator to Borneo? Oh, thumbs, these fellows. Can he find a letter in the file?

A whiz at dictating 40-page reports, how is he on two-liners of butter-spread correspondence — the ladder toward vice presidency? Held captive by unwelcome visitors, can the boss figure how to get rid of them? Extricated by Miss Iron Curtain (secretary, critic and bodyguard) he hawks her out for letting this individual impose on his precious time. "Oh yes... I brought him back with me from lunch, so I did, so I did..." he finally recalls.

In spite of being so bright, junior executives still can make good use of the college short courses. "Don't send my boys to Harvard," sing chairmen of the board, "unless they learn how to influence trends and hire secretaries!"

Without 'em, who will run the shop?

Try and Stop Me

A sarcastic congressman, appraising a hostile colleague, concluded with this mild censure, "I won't say he's dishonest, but if he had been in George Washington's shoes, he'd have double-crossed the Delaware."

A hold-up takes place on the average of every 10 minutes in the United States.

Nearly all of the uranium, manganese, cobalt, nickel and tin used in the United States are imported.

CUTIES

There's one commuter on the Harlem Division of the New York Central who is strictly barred from all bridge games. "He's the kind of player," explains a grim fellow-passenger, "who calls a spade three spades."

On a roadside near Pittsfield, Mass., Karl Tausig spotted a motel that boasted a big, neon sign reading "Blue Heaven." Directly beneath the sign was another which added "No Vacancies."

Whined a sneak-thief who had been caught in the act by an alert plain-clothesman, "I'm gonna go straight after this. I just can't take it any more."

In ancient Greece, small pieces of bread were used in place of napkins. They were disposed of by throwing them on the floor for the dogs to eat.

Nasser Seeks Showdown On Quemoy-Matsu Issue

Washington, Feb. 2 — Gamal Nasser is fishing in new troubled waters.

The power-ambitious Egyptian dictator is a ring-leader in a secret scheme to force a showdown in the UN General Assembly on the long smoldering issue of Nationalist control of Quemoy and Matsu Islands, the heavily-fortified strongholds off the Chinese mainland.

Behind this extraordinary plan is a combination of the Russian and Afro-Asian blocs in the UN. Key reason for Nasser's activity in these machinations is the urgent desire to divert pressure and world attention from him and his pro-Soviet allies, Jordan and Syria, by putting the U.S. on the defensive in another critical area.

For that purpose Red China is to launch an attack against the Nationalist islands. That is certain to be vigorously resisted. Thereupon the Communist and Afro-Asian blocs will join in a drive to raise the Quemoy and Matsu issue in the UN General Assembly, on the ground the warring over them is a serious threat to world peace.

A resolution would then be offered by Egypt to the effect that these islands belong to China and should be turned over to the Peiping regime.

UN adoption of such a declaration would be tough on the U.S. Under the policy proclaimed by President Eisenhower in 1954, and formally ratified by joint congressional resolution, the U.S. guaranteed the security of Formosa and the nearby Pescadore Islands. But nothing was said about Quemoy and Matsu Islands, some 90 miles distant and immediately off the Chinese coast.

However, the U.S. has directly and considerably aided in fortifying these long-besieged Nationalist outposts.

But because of never having expressly taken a stand on these islands, the U.S. might find itself in a difficult position in the General Assembly to cope with a powerfully-supported Red Chinese claim to Quemoy and Matsu. This is clearly the strategy of the undercover scheme of the Soviet and Afro-Asian blocs, in which Nasser is playing a leading role.

Revealing Discussion — The existence of this sinister intrigue was brought to the attention of the Foreign Relations Committee by Senator Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.).

He is also a member of the current U.S. delegation to the UN General Assembly. Without indicating the source of his startling information, Humphrey disclosed it during the Committee's closed-door questioning of Ambassador Henry Byroade about the President's new Middle East policy. Byroade, now assigned to South Africa, was formerly at Cairo.

"Why do you think Nasser recognized Red China?" began Humphrey. Byroade expressed the opinion this was part of the Egyptian dictator's deal for Communist weapons and other aid.

"Have you heard that a secret deal has been worked out between Russia, Red China and the Afro-Asian bloc to raise the Quemoy and Matsu Islands issue in the UN?" continued Humphrey. "Also that Nasser is playing a very prominent part in this conspiracy?"

Byroade replied he had heard such reports from authoritative sources.

"Aren't you greatly concerned by all this?" asked Humphrey. "We are extremely concerned," said Byroade.

"Then it's high time the Administration does something to meet this impending threat," declared Humphrey. "So far as I can ascertain neither the White House, State Department, nor anyone else is doing anything to deal with this extremely urgent situation. I want to give you a sincere piece of advice."

Unless this Administration takes prompt and vigorous action, the U.S. may find itself opposing a resolution which the General Assembly will adopt with the votes of some of our allies, whom we so gratuitously cut off around not long ago."

Note: As recently reported in this column, the Air Force's guided missile MATADOR is being added to Formosa's defenses. This ground-launched weapon, capable of delivering either conventional or atomic warheads, has a range of "several hundred miles." Control and operation of the MATADOR will be entirely in U.S. hands. The Nationalists will have no connection with the use of the powerful missile.

John F. Hill, Editor
The Daily Record,
Stroudsburg, Pa.

Dear Mr. Hill:
I wish this letter to serve as an open invitation to our county commissioners to please attend a second taxpayers meeting to be held on February 26, 1957 at eight o'clock at the Smithfield School.

We hope that at least one of these gentlemen would find the time to come and explain some of the problems of taxation in our county.

Our school directors have presented their problems to us; however, some of the inquiries made to these gentlemen were simply "out of their line" as they put it, and the residents of Smithfield would certainly appreciate the visit of one or more of our commissioners.

Such an appearance, Mr. Commissioners, would certainly convince the residents of Smithfield that you have a real and active interest in our problems and are willing to help us work those problems out to the best results for all.

Please do not disappoint us, sirs.
Yours truly,
Mrs. Robert A. Nichols

A throne is not always as romantic as a bench-in-the-park. The foregoing is illustrated by the marital difficulties of Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh. A revealing insight into their problem is offered by the following incident: During the royal couple's tour of Australia, several years ago, a stream of people were presented to the Duke at a university. When a young married pair were introduced as "Mr. and Mrs. Robinson," the Duke appeared startled. Mr. Robinson promptly explained that his wife was a doctor of philosophy and "very much more important than I."

The Duke sighed: "Ah, yes, we have that trouble in my family."

The Queen reigns over the Empire as well as her house, and the Duke is not only her husband—but one of the Queen's subjects. They once attended an exhibit showing the latest developments in radio. The Duke was fascinated by the gadgets. After a half-hour, the Queen's interest dimmed. Although Her Majesty gestured toward the exit,

Firemen To Present Dance Tonight

By Jim Riley

There's going to be a hot time in the old town tonight. Might even say there's going to be a flaming good time.

All is quite in order as the Stroudsburg Fire Department will no present — in fact they'll be there with bells on, but not fire bells.

What we are trying to say is that the Stroudsburg firemen are featuring their annual money raising dance at the Penn-Stroud Hotel tonight, beginning at 9 p.m.

Bill Deihl's Orchestra will supply the music and Mckey Klemons will headline the floor show troupe from Allentown.

Those of you who haven't purchased tickets may do so at the door. If you would like to make reservations this morning, telephone Arch Rundle at Stroudsburg 2994-J.

Rundle, chairman of the dance committee, has done a fine job in making arrangements for the affair.

Attend the dance. Have a good time and assist a good cause.

If you have a lovely feeling and happen to be reading the newspaper this morning, you might be interested in knowing that you are a member of a tremendously large group.

Did you know that more than 100,000,000 people read at least one newspaper on each average day of the year.

The 100,000,000 mark was actually passed last month, according to a company that recently completed a national survey.

The company based its report on finds of a staff of 186 permanent interviewers.

Cheer up, everyone's with you.

Judy Altman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard "Bud" Altman, 706 Sarah St., Stroudsburg, will celebrate her 19th birthday tomorrow.

Congratulations are certainly in order.

Judy's Pop is that super-salesman at Wyckoff's Department Store.

Joe Williams, peppy resident of Tannersville, is all set to renew his teen-age dances at the Pocono Township Fire House at 8:30 p.m. today.

The dances had been halted during the Winter months because of basketball games every Friday night.

Joe is planning a long run of dances at the present time.

In closing today it might be a good idea to wish everyone named George a happy birthday, that is providing they are celebrating a birth anniversary.

Let's see if you all can live up to the fine example displayed by the man who was born on this day—George Washington.

$5 Million Highway To Be Built In Saylorsburg Region

Construction To Begin In Wind Gap

WIND GAP — Construction of the $5 million Wind Gap-to-Saylorsburg highway is expected to begin by next August, spokesmen for the State Highway Department disclosed yesterday.

The spokesmen made the disclosure at a public hearing at the borough fire hall. More than 100 persons attended the session, aimed at determining the various viewpoints of area interests.

No one spoke in opposition to the project.

Among those going on record as favoring the four-lane, limited access highway was Ralph Paul, who represented the Pocono Mountains Chamber of Commerce and the Building Trades Council.

Arlow Edwards, president of the Wind Gap Borough Council, appeared at the hearing to inform state officials that council wants approaches on and off the highway at both ends of the borough. Saylorsburg residents also presented a petition which favored relocation of the new highway from the existing road.

The proposed highway would be 5.4 miles long, extending from the south end of Wind Gap to the Lake House in Saylorsburg.

There would be three clover leaves, according to Monroe County Highway Superintendent Joseph C. Clampi. One would be located at the south end, a second near Walley's Diner, and the third at the Lake House.

The road, which would be built a half-mile east of the existing road, would have four 12-foot lanes with a 20-foot divider. There would also be a 10-foot stone-stabilized shoulder in fill areas, and an eight-foot shoulder in cut areas. Clampi reported.

The proposed road will require $5 to 140-foot right-of-ways, Clampi said. The $5-million construction estimate does not include damages.

The highway spokesman also disclosed that there will be no grade more than five percent, and all hazards on the existing road will not be found in the new highway.

Moreover, he added, all rural routes will have the same access to the new highway as they do to the existing road.

The Federal Government will pay 90 percent of the costs, with the state sharing the remainder.

Among those present yesterday were Robert Sherr, plans engineer at the Allentown District Office of the Highway Department, and Edward Reardon, district personnel engineer. A representative of the Federal Bureau of Public Roads was also present.

Prayer Day Rich In History

A FIRM belief in the power of prayer has united women and men together throughout the world on one day since 1927.

This is the "World Day of Prayer." As an international observance, it had its beginning in 1927.

Its origins, however, trace back to 1857 when a "Day of Prayer" was inaugurated by the Presbyterian Women in the United States.

It was intended, then, as a purely American observance. Gradually the meaning of the "day" broadened, until, in 1919 it became a "day of united prayer for home and foreign missions."

It was still only observed, formally, in this country, however. Canada

The following year Canadian women joined with Americans in the observance of the full day of prayer. It was not until 1927, however, that the observance spread to foreign lands. In 1947, the United Council of Churchwomen (new the United Churchwomen) accepted responsibility for planning and promoting the service. At that time it became officially known as "The World Day of Prayer."

The purpose, according to spokesmen, is "to unite all Christians in a bond of prayer; to give all individuals an opportunity to share in a fellowship of prayer with others around the world and to witness to their belief that prayer has the power to bring the hearts of men and women into conformity with God's will."

Each year the "World Day of Prayer" is observed on the first Friday of Lent. In Monroe County, this year, the service will be observed at Zion Reformed Church in Stroudsburg and in other regional churches. The date is March 8.

Low Convicted Of Assault By Jury In Pike County Court

MILFORD—Russell Low of Stroudsburg, yesterday was convicted by a Pike County jury of aggravated assault and battery and simple assault on Edwin Dugan, a Greene Township resident.

However, defense counsel Walter Olenick and Michael von Mosch, visitor immediately made oral motions before Judge Carlton Woodring for a new trial.

Hung Jury

Low, proprietor of the Hemlock Lodge in Greene Township, was previously acquitted on three other charges. However, a hung jury resulted on the aggravated assault complaint.

His brother, Arthur, also was acquitted on three charges at an earlier trial. But he was convicted on a fourth complaint. He now has a motion before the court for a new trial.

The alleged assault took place in Greene Township during the Summer of 1955. Others involved as prosecutors in the first trial were Dugan's son, Michael; James Fedigan, a Summer resident of Greene Township, and Kathryn Rock.

Knowland Seeks Change

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21 (AP)—Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) tonight called on the United Nations Security Council to ban use of the veto by any nation involved in an international dispute.

Knowland, the Senate's minority leader and a member of the American delegation to the U.N., said that if the Soviet Union walks out of the international organization as the result of such an action, "so be it."

"If the actions of the U.S.S.R. during the Korean and Hungarian conflicts are examples of what we must contemplate for the future, the United Nations will have a better chance of survival without the Soviet Union than with it," he declared.

Knowland gave his views in a speech prepared for a Georgetown University lecture. He expects to discuss them with other U.N. delegates during a visit to New York tomorrow.

The senator said there are plenty of "legalistic arguments" why nothing can be done to change the form of the U.N.

Vacation Bureau To Join Drive

POCONO Mountains Vacation Bureau will join "man-to-man" in the Chamber of Commerce's membership drive to be conducted late in March.

This decision was reached last night at a meeting of the PMVB's board of governors at the Penn-Stroud Hotel and marks a new era in relations between the two agencies.

The Vacation Bureau also voted to support the proposed four-lane, limited access highway between Wind Gap and Saylorsburg.

The board heard reports on an accelerated and expanded advertising program by LeRoy Guccini, chairman of the Vacation Bureau's advertising committee.

Lineage

Guccini said the program calls for increased lineage in 13 metropolitan newspapers, three national magazines, and for the publication of a new magazine-type brochure which is expected off the press in April.

It was also reported the annual Hotel Show is expected to be a sell-out. It is scheduled for April 9-10.

A report of the convention committee by Charles Geisenger, owner-manager of the High Point and Monomnock Inns, recommended that local members of the Chamber be enlisted for leads as to conventions which could be brought to the area.

The bureau also went on record to "give every consideration" to bring all worthwhile sport events to the Poconos.

Committee Opposes Move

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21 (AP)—The House Veterans Committee today voted against tapping National Service Life Insurance reserves as a source of direct government housing loans to veterans.

Chairman Teague (D-Tex.) said the proposal raised so many questions it was shelved, at least for the present.

Future action is not foreclosed," he said.

The same committee yesterday voted down an Eisenhower administration bill to increase the maximum interest rate on GI home loans from 4 1/2 to 5 per cent.

Big Day Tomorrow

'Minutemen' Beginning Of National Guard

WHEN America's National Guard came into being its character and components were basically the same as they are today. The "Minutemen" were not "career" soldiers. They were landowners, lawyers, doctors, handymen, gunsmiths, farmers and shopkeepers. They did just about everything in their community and held every conceivable kind of position.

But they were united in one thing: they knew the importance of being alert to the need for protecting their country, their homes and their families.

Because of this, through the efforts of George Washington and other men who saw the need for military training "at home," the National Guard actually came into being.

The original "Minutemen" could not, possibly, have devoted their entire lives to working within an armed service alone. They had to do the two jobs at once—keep their families alive and clothed and keep themselves ready to protect their own interests and their nation.

Today's National Guard philosophy has been rooted deeply in Washington's belief that an alert, well-trained citizenry is America's first line of defense and that this can be done on the home front.

This year a special National Guard recruitment day will be held tomorrow in Monroe County. The day-long drive will also serve as an honor to Washington himself.

In discussing Monroe County's National Guard program, 1st Sgt. Vincent Marek points out the following:

"Our two Guard companies are set up to provide multiple services. These services go not only to the men who belong to the company, but to the entire community and, in the end, to the nation as a whole.

"In Company F and Company G we of the National Guard are trying to provide, first of all, a full and adequate training program on the military level. This military training consists of weapons handling and care, drills, field trips, the care and maintenance of equipment and other routine requirements such as those generally found in basic training.

"Beyond this level we attempt, also, to help the citizen-soldier to prepare himself for better jobs—not only in the service of his country but also in civilian life.

"For this reason we've established facilities for training in mechanical skills, in still and motion picture photography, vehicle repairing, stenography, personnel work, administration in the company and the management of offices, field radio repair, communications centers operations, radio range and beacon repairs and virtually all phases of communications.

"Through trying to help our recruits train themselves for better jobs, we are also trying to build the quality of the National Guard and construct a stronger and more complete line of defense for the nation as a whole.

"National Guard activity in Monroe County offers young men and veterans their best opportunity to serve their country. Through regular drills, held each week, and the full-scale two-week Summer training course at Indiantown Gap, Companies F and G have been able to build a reputation for military training unsurpassed in this State.

"Tomorrow when we hold the one-day recruiting drive, we hope we'll be able to add more manpower to the strong foundation company members and our officers have already built for the National Guard," Marek concluded.

Recruiting tables will be set up tomorrow in the lobby of the Penn-Stroud Hotel in Stroudsburg. A full three hours and 55 minutes of air time will be devoted to National Guard on Radio Station WVVO tomorrow afternoon.

The program will include interviews with the commanders of the local companies, with enlistees and with men who have been in the National Guard for some time.

Stock Market Slumps As Week Closes

NEW YORK, Feb. 21 (AP)—The stock market ended a holiday-shortened week today with a decline that cancelled yesterday's rise—the only one of the week.

Of 1,103 issues traded, declines outnumbered advances by 489 to 208. There were 20 new 1956-57 lows and three new highs.

Second Day

Steels retreated. Lukens dropped 1 1/2 and U. S. Steel 1. Aircrafts were down. General Dynamics was off 1/2 and Douglas Aircraft 1 1/2. Leading rails showed an array of fractional declines.

On the American Stock Exchange, prices fell on volume of 610,000 shares compared with 670,000 yesterday.

Corporate bonds were lower in quiet trading. U. S. Government bonds ledged to the downside in slow dealings over the counter.

Toll Revisions Recommended For Turnpike

HARRISBURG, Feb. 21 (AP)—The Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission today scheduled an open meeting for next Tuesday to disclose toll revisions recommended by its consulting engineer.

At an executive session following its regular meeting Feb. 13, the commission received the toll report from Michael Baker Jr., Rochester, Pa., consulting engineers.

Request

The Baker firm was requested by the commission late last year to make a study of tolls along the Delaware River Extension of the turnpike, from Valley Forge to the Delaware River. The commission has declined to indicate whether the recommendations apply only to this stretch, covered by bonds sold in 1952, or to the entire system. State Requests Warning Signal Be Erected PEN ARGYL—A recommendation by the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission calling for the erection of a warning signal at a grade crossing on Route 49038, just south of here, has been forwarded to the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad.

A letter from Leon Schwartz, chairman of the PUC, advised the railroad that a complaint from the state and Plainfield Township has been received. One main track and a side track of the line's Bangor and Portland branch cross the highway there.

The letter states that an automobile ran into the side of a train at the crossing on Oct. 20, 1954, but that no casualties resulted from the accident.

Statement
"Our investigation at the crossing revealed that the sight distances available to vehicular traffic of trains approaching from the east are practically nil until the vehicle is almost upon the crossing," the letter reads.

"While the view of trains approaching from the west is much better, there still remains the hazard of accidents due to the darkness in the vicinity of the crossing," it continues.

Schwartz wrote, "We are of the opinion that flashing light signal protection is required at this location for the safety of the public."

Flames Destroy Methodist Church Located In Dalton

SCRANTON, Feb. 21 (AP)—Flames today destroyed the Dalton Methodist Church, 12 miles west of here.

Dalton Fire Chief John Ross Jr. placed the loss at $100,000 and said it would cost twice that amount to replace the structure.

Furnace Room

Ross said the blaze started in a furnace room at the rear of the 50-year-old structure and spread quickly. A general alarm brought firemen from surrounding communities to the scene, but their three-hour battle was in vain. At the height of the fire, the church roof collapsed.

The church was erected on the site of another church destroyed by fire in 1905.

TOBYHANNA FIRE — An early morning fire caused damages running into the thousands of dollars at the Mildred Dykeman property in Tobyhanna yesterday. Three Companies Battle Flames At Tobyhanna As Thermometer Hovers Near 12-Degree Mark TOBYHANNA—Forty-five firemen from three companies were called into service in 12-degree temperatures early yesterday morning to battle flames which caused heavy damage to the Mildred Dykeman property here.

The fire swept through a new section which had been built at the rear of the large two-story frame structure last year, and threatened for a time to spread to the entire front section.

Before the blaze was brought under control, it had destroyed the beauty parlor operated by Mrs. Dykeman's daughter, May Roeder, as well as a large kitchen, sun parlor and two bedrooms.

Considerable damage was done to the living room, sewing room and Mrs. Dykeman's dress shop on the first floor and three bedrooms on the second floor.

Lloyd Knecht, chief of the Coolbaugh Township Volunteer Fire Co., estimated damage to the property at $8,000. This figure, he said, did not include the loss of equipment in the beauty parlor nor to the equipment and stock in the dress shop, where the damage was caused mostly by smoke and water.

The only living things in the building when the fire broke out were two Chihuahua dogs belonging to Mrs. Dykeman which had been left in the basement while Mrs. Dykeman and daughter were in Bangor and Pen Argyl visiting relatives overnight.

The dogs were suffering from exposure but in good shape otherwise when removed from the water-logged basement by a fireman, Francis (Bud) Evans, after the fire had been extinguished.

Chief Knecht said the alarm was sounded at 1:15 a.m. by Mrs. Boyer Knecht, who lives near the Dykeman property. She discovered the blaze when she awoke to find her baby.

Knecht responded and went into immediate action as the flames shot through the roof. A call for help was sounded by Mrs. Bessie Blake, another neighbor, and Mount Pocono Fire Co. sent two trucks and 12 men, while Tobyhanna Signal Depot dispatched a truck and several men.

The firemen laid three lines of hose a distance of 500 feet to the creek below Lake No. 1 and pumped water to the burning building. They succeeded in saving the main part of the building despite the cold weather and the fact the fire had what witnesses described as "a tremendous head start."

The fire is believed to have started on the first floor near a chimney, but its exact cause could not be determined immediately, Chief Knecht said. It was the village's worst fire since Tobyhanna Inn was destroyed two years ago.

Members of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Coolbaugh Fire Co. and Morris' Restaurant served coffee to the firemen during the blaze. The two visiting companies were relieved of duty about daybreak, while the Coolbaugh firemen remained on the scene until 6 a.m. A truck and a crew of men stood by until later in the morning.

Tax Returns

Final Articles Of Series Warns Individual To Guard Against Becoming Big Group Member

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the eighth and final article dealing with the correct manner in which to file income tax returns. The series has appeared in The Daily Record in recent weeks.

By William O. Varn
AP Newfeatures

THIS IS THE eighth and last of a series of articles explaining the rules and procedures for taxpayers to follow in filing out their federal income tax returns for 1956. It outlines some last minute hints of things to check before mailing your return and some of the common errors taxpayers make which result in their paying more or less than they should.

Audits of returns made by the Internal Revenue Service show that as high as one out of every four income tax returns filed by individuals contains a major error. As a rule, nine out of 10 incorrect returns reflect an error in the taxpayer's favor and only one out of 10 in Uncle Sam's favor. The incorrect returns call for additional taxes totaling one and one-half billion dollars annually and refunds of more than a million dollars for over 19 million dollars and bills for additional taxes of more than 62 million dollars.

Penalty
If you underpay your tax for any reason, you must pay interest at the rate of six per cent on any additional tax due. And in some cases, penalties may be assessed. The Internal Revenue Service wants to collect every penny due the government, but no more. And it is just as anxious as you to see that you pay no more than is required by law. But, if you make a mistake in filing your return, regardless of whose favor it is in, there will be some inconvenience for you—some correspondence at least.

So the first suggestion is this—after you have made out your return put it aside for a day or two. When you pick it up again, reread it carefully, line by line. Here are some things to double-check:

1. Be sure your name and address are printed in the top lines so they can be read easily. Many taxpayers have not received refunds they have come because the revenue service people can't be sure of their names or addresses.
2. Be sure you have checked the proper blocks for all the exemptions you are entitled to and that you have properly listed your dependents.
3. Check and double-check your addition, subtraction and other computations. Most errors are made in arithmetic on income tax returns.
4. Be sure you have attached Copy B of the Form W-2 received from each of the employers you worked for during 1956.

5. Last, but not least, before placing your return in an envelope for mailing, make sure that you have signed your name in the proper place. If it is a joint return, make sure your wife (or husband) has signed, too. No income tax return is complete until it has been signed.

Now for some of the mistakes taxpayers make that result in major errors in one return out of every four. Listed first are those which result in paying more tax than is owed:

1. Failure to claim the extra $600 personal exemptions allowed taxpayers 65 or over, or blind.
2. Failure to claim all exemptions for dependents to which you are entitled. This includes especially your children under 19 or in school who have $600 or more income of their own and relatives which you and some others may be supporting together.
3. Failure to deduct directly from your wages on Page One of Form 1040 those expenses you incurred as an employee such as traveling, transportation, outside salesman and reimbursed expenses.

4. Failure to deduct pay received while absent from work due to injury or illness under a wage continuation plan financed by your employer (Line six, Page one of Form 1040).
5. Taking the standard deduction of 10 per cent of adjusted gross income allowed for personal expenses in cases where actual deductible items total more than 10 per cent.
6. Failure to claim certain deductions allowed for personal expenses when itemizing deductions on page two of Form 1040.
7. Husband and wife filing separate returns when a joint return would have resulted in less total tax for the two, and vice-versa.

Errors
These are some of the errors taxpayers make which result in their getting a bill for additional taxes:

1. Claiming exemption deductions for persons not qualifying as dependents.
2. Failure to report all compensation for services rendered, particularly in cases where no tax was withheld, such as tips, gratuities, bonuses, etc.
3. Failure to report other kinds of, taxable income such as dividends, interest on bank accounts and on Series E Savings Bonds, profits on sales of property, rents, etc.
4. Claiming deductions for personal expense items which are not deductible such as gifts to needy friends or relatives, the various federal excise taxes paid, cash or other personal property lost, cost of travel to and from work, educational expenses, etc.

5. Claiming excessive amounts for deductible items such as charitable contributions, taxes, medical expenses, and the like. This usually happens when taxpayers fail to keep good records and estimate the amounts they claim as deductions.

To sum up, an attempt has been made in this series of articles to explain the federal income tax rules which apply to the big majority of taxpayers, those who are salary and wage earners. In event you have any further question which is not answered here or in the official instructions accompanying your blank return forms, you can obtain help by calling or visiting the local office of your district director of Internal Revenue.

Protection Coverage In Operation

FAMILY protection coverage, which will pay motorists the damages they are entitled to recover if they or members of their families are injured by uninsured automobiles, became effective Feb. 4 in Pennsylvania.

This information was relayed to the G. L. Coy Insurance Agency yesterday by William Leslie, general manager of the National Bureau of Casualty Underwriters.

Under the new coverage the company agrees to pay all sums which the insured shall be legally entitled to recover as damages from the owner or operator of an uninsured automobile because of bodily injury caused by accident. Coverage will apply even when the injury occurs while the insured is not occupying an automobile as, for example, if struck by an uninsured car while walking or bicycling. A "hit-and-run" car will be regarded as an uninsured car, and coverage will apply where neither the owner nor the operator of the "hit-and-run" car can be ascertained.

Included as insureds are the named insured as stated in the policy and, while residents of the same household, the husband or wife of the named insured and their relatives. Guests are also included under the coverage while occupying an automobile operated by the named insured or spouse.

The new coverage will be available to owners of private passenger cars that are eligible for insurance under the "family automobile policy."

Dr. William C. Kopenhaver, Stroudsburg, will participate in a series of panel programs at the 61st Annual Foot Care Conference, which will be held in New York City over the Washington's Birthday weekend, at the Barbizon Plaza and the Pierre Hotels.

Over 2,000 foot specialists from all over the country will attend the sessions which are sponsored by The Podiatry Society of the State of New York. They will include a series of lectures and discussions on the latest drugs and techniques used for the prevention and treatment of foot deformities.

Eight diesel-electric locomotives of 1,200 horsepower capacity have been ordered by the Lackawanna Railroad for delivery next fall.

The new locomotives, which will be used in yard switching service, will be built by the Electric-Motive division of General Motors Corporation, at La Grange, Ill. They will cost about $1,000,000.

When announcing the order, Perry M. Shoemaker, president of the Lackawanna, explained that the eight new yard units will replace for train service several larger locomotives now being used in yard service.

HOWARD A. Rockefeller, of 25 Club Court, Stroudsburg, was among a group of representatives of the Scranton office of the New York Life Insurance Co. who visited the company's home office recently.

The group lunched with company officials and inspected New York Life's recent installation of high-speed electronic equipment.

THE Wyckoff SHOPPER

I shall never forget Valentine's Day of this year. It was a dreary day to begin with . . . and as it sped along it was rather a trying one, smiling upon me one moment, scowling at me the next . . . giving with the left hand, snatching away with the right. It was the kind of a day all of us have sometimes . . . a day in which one seesaws between the sublime and the best forgotten. But looking back upon it, I have an inkling that in years to come, I shall remember February 14th, 1957 for one thing above all else—it was the day upon which I saw the Madonna without hands.

"We've been invited to Angelo Vianello's studio this evening," Shorty Widmer had told me early that morning, and all day I looked forward to it. Several times when the steel came down and travel seemed threatened, I'd query, "Will you and Marion go if the weather doesn't clear, Shorty?" It was a relief to learn that they would. I was looking forward to it . . . to seeing again the dramatic, intensive Italian-born artist who had argued the merits of modern art feelingly (and in a charming accent) during a recent Pocono Art Group debate with Sterling Strauser . . . and who had made me marvel with the glory of his exactly detailed paintings, two of which—a landscape, and a bouquet of sunflowers—you saw during our last Wyckoff art show. I was eager too to meet Mrs. Vianello, whose own world, prior to her marriage, was that of music.

The Vianello home is reached by turning aside from Broadheads on a road leading to McMichael's. It nestles on a hillside, and the artist's studio is removed from the house by a pleasant climb over terrain that wasn't considered practical for me to attempt until I'd borrowed a pair of someone's overshoes. Mrs. Vianello led the way with a flashlight . . . and when the door opened on her husband's canvases and statues, it was as though we had entered another world. On an easel was a portrait of Mr. Vianello's mother; stacked against the wall were landscapes from our own county and the state of Vermont. There were pads of wondrously perceptive sketches, done quickly to capture the features of the listless, amusing, delightful, beautiful, or homely people who brush shoulders on trains, subways, or in market places. These, Mr. Vianello explained, are his "school work." There were paintings too in which flowers were so "real" you could almost feel the velvety texture of their petals, and noses so third-dimensional you could almost tweak them.

It was about this time, after inspecting the paintings, that I saw the Madonna. High on a counter against the wall, she looked down upon us serenely . . . and her expression was the most compassionate and gentle I have ever seen. There were such serenity, love, and beauty on her countenance, I had a sudden feeling that somehow she and I were alone in that room; that she knew everything that was troubling me, and was sharing it with me. "She isn't finished," Mr. Vianello said. "She has no hands." Moving a few other objects aside he picked up a postcard reproduction of a Raphael Madonna. "I love Madonnas too," he said, when I explained that I have collected some 600, "but this I cannot finish. I haven't found just the right hand—a Raphael-type hand."

I noticed, for the first time, that indeed she was unfinished. The graceful folds of her robe fell over seemingly empty sleeves. But it was the face that held me. If only I could keep just that face before me, I was sure nothing could ever touch me again. Time after time I glanced back at her as Mr. Vianello showed us how his statues are made; how the plaster is formed, cast, and finally finished, and how medallions are created.

It was a delightful evening that culminated in rather a gala Valentine party . . . an enriching Valentine's Day if ever I had one, and completely unforgettable. It was the day my list of friends grew by two wonderful newcomers to our Poconos . . . the day on which I saw, for the first time, the beautiful Madonna without hands.

Wyckoff's

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

Surprise parties don't always surprise the right people. Some people, of course, have amazing faculty of finding out what's going on — not from anything anybody says but from the general atmosphere of tension, the hastily hidden signs of preparation. Of course if they're good sports they can always pretend not to notice and to act more surprised than if they really were.

Then, there's the too-well kept surprise where the guest of honor gets busy and just doesn't come home — or where she does her hair up in pin curls and goes to bed early and consequently has to come to the party all stringy ends and discomfort.

Then there's the spur-of-the-moment surprise that doesn't come off. Last night, for instance, knowing that one of my favorite people was coming through on a bus with no stopover, I thought I'd surprise her by being at the bus station, if only to wave. Well, I met enough buses to transport the entire population to Buffalo, but not the right one, apparently. So all I got out of that was cold feet and a lot of surprised looks from strange bus passengers.

But at that, it was better than the night I got cold chills from trying to surprise a surprier whom I thought was trying to surprise me. As children we had a fascinating game called Let's-Scare - Each - Other, which included jumping out from dark corners and various other fiendish devices.

Well, we'd scared ourselves silly by bed-time, and I felt I was one up on the rest, so it came as no surprise to hear the door creek open. With my eyes tight shut I was thinking gleefully how scared they'd be when I pounced on them before they pounced on me.

I could hear the floor boards creak under their feet, hear their excited breathing. I waited until I felt the bed give as they leaned against it — then, I pounced. Pounced on empty air and a bright, moonlit, empty room. Empty, that is, except for the frightful unseen things I imagined surrounding me.

Japanese Cuts Off Thumb

TOKYO, Feb. 21 (AP)—A 21-year-old Japanese dashed into a police station waving a bloody hand and gasped: "My thumb! Two men attacked me and cut it off."

Police sniffed, questioned him closely, found he had been fired from his job, got drunk and in a fit of depression cut off his thumb.

TOM Somers and Mag Loney, who along with a few others seem to do the most to promote the Varsity "S" Association of Stroudsburg, have lined up quite an array of teams for the club-sponsored basketball tournament.

Somers, president of the organization, and Loney, tournament general chairman, have 10 teams ready for action when play gets under way at Stroudsburg High School gymnasium, Monday night.

Current plans call for two games an evening until the closing night Saturday, March 2.

Proceeds from the five-day event (no games are slated for March 1 when Stroudsburg High hosts Eastburg) will be used to defray some of the expenses of sending the Mountaineer football team to camp this summer.

Last year the 8-men worked long and hard to get the Stroudsburg team grid team away. This year the load can be lightened if the tournament out West Main St. is a financial success.

Every former and present student, plus those who just like basketball should see that their work has not been in vain. Good turnout during the tournament will assure this.

The other night, Harry Rudolph dropped in a local grill for a sandwich. While waiting for the food, Rudolph asked the waitress to turn on the TV set.

Meanwhile in another spot in the restaurant, Joe Whalen, WPO's sports director, glanced toward the set and asked inquisitively, "Isn't that Menzie Rudolph?"

A voice from the other end yelled back, "yes, and here is father."

Harry had just come from officiating at the East Stroudsburg Teachers and Look Haven court games, and Menzie was refereeing the New York Knicks and Boston Celtics fray in New York.

Video and Joe Whalen had brought father (Harry) and son (Menzie) together.

Along with the Varsity "S" tournament, a busy six days in store for local and area sports figures, as well as lovers of good music.

The agenda shows Varsity "S" basketball, Feb. 23 — March 2; Monroe County Basketball League's banquet, Feb. 28; Tom Waring's concert for the benefit of the Stroudsburg baseball team, Feb. 28.

Of course, Friday, March 1, the basketball battle of the boroughs, Stroudsburg vs. East Stroudsburg in the Mountaineer den.

Ticketed for Stardom?—Last Tuesday Tom Gross gained his first starting role in a Stroudsburg High varsity basketball uniform.

The 6-3 sophomore, who prior to this occasion had seen only a few moments of varsity action, showed more than the passing promise in his regular debut.

The newest of court Mountaineers, son of Chet, present official and a star in his own right not too long ago, moved about with the grace of a veteran. His rebound work was more than adequate, and although the ball was on the bucket in the first half, he still was able to can 11 for a good night's work.

It's early in the boy's career but we're willing to go out on the limb and predict a rosy future for the boy who only a few weeks ago was playing jayvee ball.

Across the river, the same holds true of Jim Kindrew, the Cavaliers' sophomore scoring ace. Jim, who stretches around 6-2 is starting to get the finesse that comes with age.

Kindrew is a fighter too. An inspirational type player. Maybe next year they will be much brighter for Doug Schoonover and his Eastburg underlings, especially if a blond-haired lefty under the name of Kindrew shapes up as expected.

Celtics, Pistons Win NBA Tilt

BOSTON, Feb. 21 (AP)—Tom Heinsohn, Holy Cross All-American, making a solid bid for rookie-of-the-year honors, contributed 23 points to Boston's 125-112 victory over St. Louis today at Boston Garden.

Forwards Mel Hutchins and George Yardley were the big guns as Fort Wayne defeated New York 126-114 in the first half of the National Basketball Assn. double-header.

Parkland Routs Cavaliers

Trojans Hand Cavaliers 4th 2nd Half Loss

PARKLAND—East Stroudsburg High ran into a "hot" Parkland High five here last night as the Trojans ripped the Cavaliers, 80-54, in a Lehigh-Northampton League contest.

Hitting on 50 percent of their shots the in and out Trojans were "on" against the Cavaliers as they sent Doug Schoonover's boys down to their fourth second half L-N loss.

East Stroudsburg led only once and that was at the start of the tilt when Jim Kindrew pushed one through for a 2-0 Cavaliers lead. After that it was all Parkland.

The Trojans ran away to a 21-12 first quarter edge and then proceeded to pile up a 43-18 pad at halftime.

Only in the last period did the Cavaliers show any offense as they outscored Parkland, 22-14. But the damage had already been done.

Beers Cans 21

King Beers, of East Stroudsburg, and Parkland's Jerry Wescoe shared game scoring honors as each canned 21 markers. Dick James, of Parkland, was next high with 18, and Schoonover's Kindrew and the Trojans' Jim Simcock were trailed with 15 apiece.

The loss left Eastburg with a 3-4 second half leg in the L-N and an overall seasonal mark of 6-12.

For Parkland the victory was the fourth in the final league running and their 11th in 18 contests this year.

Palmer Grabs Early Lead

HOUSTON, Tex., Feb. 21 (AP)—Arnold Palmer, 27, former National Amateur champion from Latrobe, Pa., fired a five-under-par 67 today to overcome three veterans and two youngsters and grab the first round lead in the $36,000 Houston Open.

Palmer, a professional three years, was in trouble on two holes but finished with a 34-33-67 for the 7,200-yard, par 72 Memorial Park course, longest on the winter golf tour.

This left the 1954 amateur king one stroke ahead of Peter Thomson, the British Open champion from Australia; Jimmy Demaret, the hometown gallery favorite; Doug Ford, former PGA champion from Mahopac, N.Y.; Buddy Weaver, young Houston pro, and old University of Houston freshman.

Whitehall's 2nd Half Rally Erases Stroudsburg, 65-51

WHITEHALL HIGH stayed mathematically in the running for second half Lehigh Valley League laurels last night by spurning in the second half to turn back an upset-minded Stroudsburg five, 65-51, in the West Main St. gym.

The Zephyrs, a game behind Palmerton in the standings, meet the Blue Bombers Tuesday at home. But it wasn't that easy last night although the score indicates a non-sweating win.

Stroudsburg, with a starting array of Ted Williams, Tom Gross, Bob Adelman, Dick Everett and Jim Welsh, shot into an early lead and commanded the tilt very handily to halftime.

The Mountaineers, pressing the Zephyrs practically out of the gym, grabbed a 14-11 edge in the first quarter and then proceeded to hawk the visitors crazy in the second half.

ond, running up a 17-12 edge and at one time a 30-25 advantage before Whitehall dumped in a double-decker to make it 30-25 at the intermission.

Start Downhill

But here, Kupiec had to sit out Williams because of four fouls. This slight indentation in the Mountaineer setup motivated the start downhill. Before you knew it, Stroudsburg had fallen behind 35-30. Then the Zephyrs pulled away, piling up a 52-41 bulge at the end of three periods.

It was about the same in the fourth, even though Whitehall Coach John Steckel inserted his "shock troops" with three minutes left.

Williams High

Williams, despite a long, forced rest period, paced the Mountaineers with 16 markers. Tom Gross, sophomore hopeful, was next with 13, followed by Bob Adelman's nine.

Hank Koehler, 6-5 pivotman for Whitehall, led the visitors with 13, followed by Bob Gontkowski's and Wally Ludwig's 12 each.

The contest wound up the LV year for the Mountaineers with 3-14 record—2-5 in the second half—and gave Kupiec's charges a 6-16 log to take against arch-rival East Stroudsburg next week.

In the preliminary, Whitehall's junior varsity defeated Stroudsburg's underlings, 48-38. The varsity boxscore:

Arthur Jolley is New Manager of JOLLEY'S Auto Exchange

Arthur Jolley

It is with a bit of sadness as well as pride that I approach another rung on the ladder of my life. From the time I was old enough to wash cars around here, Dad planned for me to eventually take over the business. We only wish he could be with us today to see his dreams take place.

There's been extensive remodeling and expansion of the business during the past year, and we're proud to say that we now have the largest indoor showroom (over 5,300 square feet) in the county; as well as 2,500 feet of outdoor display area.

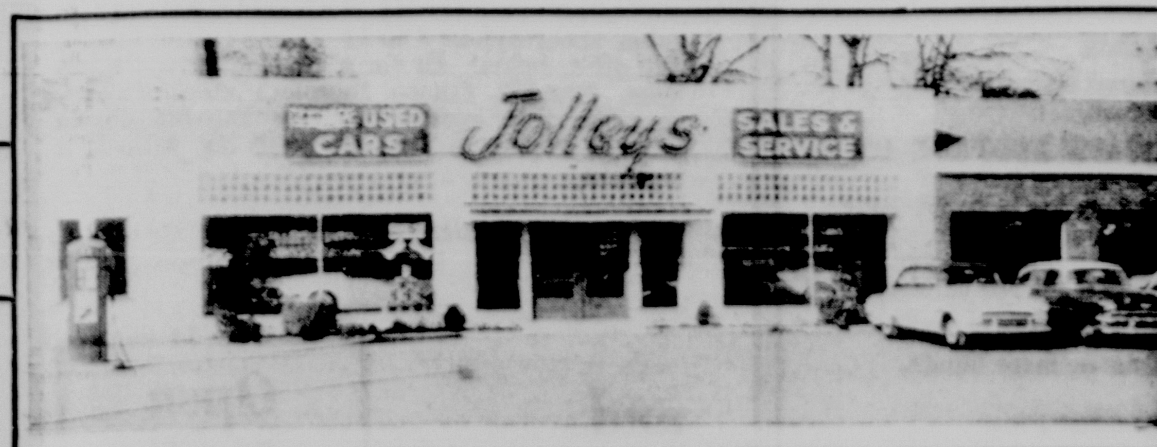

Our inventory is selectively purchased, we pick the "cream of the crop" for resale... when we receive a trade-in it is completely serviced in our own shop. Any adjustments, corrections, or replacements to be made are taken care of, and after a rigorous road-test is passed, the automobile is then cleaned, waxed, and placed in our display area. By this means we are able to be assured of "customer satisfaction" as well as the continuance of TRADITION. This is backed up by the reputable JOLLEY'S guarantee.

Our Parts and Service Departments, under the managership of Charles Dellaria (12 years with us), and including Howard Transue (15 years with us), Donald Transue (12 years...) and Robert DeHaven (2 years...), offers the same high quality workmanship to your car as is given to our own cars being readied for resale. The inventory of our Parts Department includes parts for ALL makes and models of both cars and trucks. Our Service Department takes pride in their "bumper to bumper, rim to roof" servicing, from the most intricate of motor, transmission, or differential work, to the cutting and installing of window glass—our specialty in this being one-piece curved windshields. We are equipped to service everything from trucks to 1957 luxury model cars. During the month of March two of our men go for another refresher course at automatic transmission school... We intend to keep up with the times!

We have 60 cars on hand now, all mechanically perfect and ready for trouble-free driving. We'd like all of our old customers and our future customers to know that the fine old reputation of going out of our way to please you, that started here in 1938, still is a part of the JOLLEY'S Auto Exchange of today!

As in the past, you are welcome to come in and browse around, we're always glad to talk with you. Remember, your stopping in to look around obligates you in no way.
